| General Introduction: Design, Sampling, and Ethics   | 1          |
| PART I. Research Questions and Designs  | 9   |
| CHAPTER 1. When to Use Survey Designs  | 15         |
| CHAPTER 2. When to Use Interview Designs   | 31         |
| CHAPTER 3. When to Use Experimental Designs  | 48         |
| CHAPTER 4. When to Use Naturalistic and Participant Observational Designs                  | 67         |
| CHAPTER 5. When to Use Archival Designs: Literature Reviewsand Secondary Data Analysis | 86         |
| CHAPTER 6. When to Use Combined Research Designs   | 103        |
| PART II. Sampling, Selection, and Recruitment                                       | 115 |
| CHAPTER 7. Sampling for Surveys  | 121        |
| CHAPTER 8. Identifying and Recruiting People for Interviews                                | 141        |
| CHAPTER 9. Sampling, Recruiting, and Assigning Participants in Experiments                 | 159        |
| CHAPTER 10. Searching and Sampling for Observations  | 180        |
| CHAPTER 11. Sampling from Archival Sources   | 198        |
| CHAPTER 12. Sampling and Recruiting for Combined Research Designs                          | 217        |
