

CONTENTS

Foreword, Richard C. Vincent	xi
Preface	xvii
Introduction	xix

PART I: THE FOUR WORLDS

1 The Four Worlds: A Classification	3
Notes	9
2 The Four Worlds: A Characterization	11
Notes	17
3 The Four Worlds: The Six Relations Among Them	19
First World-Second World	19
First World-Third World	20
First World-Fourth World	21
Second World-Third World	21
Second World-Fourth World	22
Third World-Fourth World	22
ExKurs I. Global Migration: A 1492-1992-2492 Perspective	24
ExKurs II. On the Way to Superpower Status:
India and the EC Compared	32
1. The World System: A Sociological Perspective	32
2. The Superpowers Are Dead; Long Live the Superpowers!	35
3. Being a Superpower: India and the EC Compared	36
4. Having What a Superpower Needs:
India and the EC Compared	38
5. Building Superpower Legitimacy:
India and the EC Compared	39
6. The Superpower Path Leads But to Decline and Fall	43
Notes	44

PART II: INSIDE THE WORLDS

4	Inside the First World	49
	Notes	52
5	Inside the Fourth World	53
	East Asia: Core, Context and the European Analogy	53
	A (N)EAC Core in an OSCAP Context, and
	Conflict Resolution	55
	Conclusion: Some Problems to Watch	57
	Appendix 1: The Korean Peninsula	58
	Appendix 2: China-Taiwan-Hong Kong/ Macao-Tibet-Xinjiang-Inner Mongolia	58
6	On the Causes of Terrorism and Their Removal	61
	Introduction: An Overview	61
	The Four Worlds: Non-state Terrorism and State Terrorism	62
	Why So Much State and Non-state Terrorism Today?	65
	Conclusion: Remedies for Terrorism	69
	Notes	71

PART III: PROGNOSIS

7	Relation-Oriented Approach	77
8	Structure-Oriented Approach I: The State System	87
9	Structure-Oriented Approach II:
	The Center-Periphery System	97
	ExKurs III: The Eastward NATO Expansion:
	The Beginning of Cold War II	103
	1. An Expansion Story Foretold?	103
	2. NATO Expansion as Seen From the United States:
	A Global Strategy	103
	3. NATO Expansion as Seen From Russia:
	Betrayal and Then What?	107
	4. How About the Security and Stability of Eastern Europe?	110
	5. And How About the Western European Countries?	110
	6. Conclusion	111
	ExKurs IV: An Essay in Agenda Theory	113
	1. Basic Concepts and Hypotheses	113
	2. Post-Cold War Tristesse: The Agenda Vacuum	115
	3. Post-Cold War Agendas: The West	117
	4. Post-Cold War Agendas: The East	119
	5. Post-Cold War Agendas: The Nonaligned	120
	6. The Divided Countries: Germany and Korea	122
	7. A Special Case: Yugoslavia	123
	8. Geopolitics After the Cold War: What Kind of a World?	124
	Notes	126

PART FOUR: THE NEXT

10	Diversity, Symbiosis, and a Moral Imperative	133
	Note	143
11	On the Abolition of War and Other Social Evils	145
	A General Theory of Dominance	145
	A General Theory of Liberation	151
12	Visioning a Peaceful World	159
	Peace, Power, and the State: Some Basic Assumptions	159
	The Military Power Dimension	160
	The Economic Power Dimension	166
	The Cultural Power Dimension	166
	The Political Power Dimension	172
	An Eight-fold Path	176
	ExKurs V: The Military in Transition: New Tasks	178
	Notes	188
	Conclusion	189
	About the Author	191
	Appendix: 50 Trends to Consider	193
	Index	205