

Contents

	List of illustrations	vii
	List of contributors	ix
	Acknowledgements	xiii
1	Climate, culture and weather GEORGINA H. ENDFIELD AND LUCY VEALE	1
2	Learning to say “Phew” instead of “Brrr”: social and cultural change during the British summer of 1976 IAN WAITES	16
3	On the home front: Australians and the 1914 drought RUTH A. MORGAN	34
4	Extreme weather and the growth of charity: insights from the Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariners’ Royal Benevolent Society, 1839–1860 CATHRYN PEARCE	55
5	The temporal memory of major hurricanes CARY J. MOCK	78
6	“May God place a bridge over the River Tywi”: interrogating flood perceptions and memories in Welsh medieval poetry HYWEL M. GRIFFITHS, EURIG SALISBURY AND STEPHEN TOOTH	93
7	Remembering in God’s name: the role of the church and community institutions in the aftermath and commemoration of floods ALEXANDER HALL	112

vi Contents

8	"The ice shards are gone": traditional ecological knowledge of climate and culture among the Cree of the Eastern James Bay, Canada	133
	MARIE-JEANNE S. ROYER
9	Post-scripting extreme weather: textuality, eventhood, resilience	154
	VLADIMIR JANKOVIC AND JAMES R. FLEMING
	Index	167