

Contents

h

About the Author	vii
The Joy of Killing	1
1 The Best of All Possible Violence: The Frightful Fallout from the Great Lisbon Earthquake	4
2 Once Upon a Time, Long, Long Ago: The Cesspits of the Enlightenment	21
3 Pre-industrial Mass Killing: The Gift of Death from Ancient Rome to the Aztec Empire	33
4 The European Way of War: From Abattoir Christianity to Godforsaken Total War	43
5 Enlightened Killing: From the Delicacy of the Wet Guillotine to the Damp Squib of Electrocution	63
6 The Animal Slaughter Industry: Perfect Cities of Blood – Paris and Chicago	74
7 The Human Slaughter Industry: War-machines, Speed-space, and Shell Shock	84
8 Weaponized Air: From Forced Euthanasia to Military Ballooning	102
9 Atmospheric Terrorism: Exterminatory Air Conditioning	113
10 Black Meteorology: Experimental Airquakes and Lethal Landscapes	125

11	Firestorms and Corpse Mines: The Optimism of Imprecision in Incinerated Cities	134
12	Capital Punishment: A Race of Outcasts Reduced to the Status of Ordinary Men	149
13	The Business of Genocide: Desk Murderers and Calculated Killers	157
	Still Dead Certain	174
	References	175
	Index	193